

The Shepherd

"And it came to pass as the angels were gone away from them into heaven, the shepherds said one to another, Let us now go even unto Bethlehem, and see this thing which is come to pass..." —Luke 11:15

IF JESUS had been born in a palace instead of a stable, there would have been something incongruous in the visit of Judean shepherds to His birthplace. Moreover, they would have been refused admittance. A group of poor, unwashed men of the hills to visit a King? Unthinkable!

But just as God had long before chosen another shepherd, David, for an important mission, so now He led these shepherds of Bethlehem to the manger crib. There they were the first outside His family to worship the Babe and then to become the first evangelists to go forth and make known abroad the fact that the Messiah had come.

The Gospels do not tell us what became of those shepherds in the years that followed. But there is a legend still told in Bible lands concerning one of the shepherds named Abishai. It goes like this:

After waiting for the last note of the angels' jubilant melody—borne upon a breeze blowing from distant reaches of light—Abishai said to his companions: "Let us hasten to the City of David and see for ourselves this thing the Lord has made known unto us."

As they prepared to depart, Abishai drove his shepherd's staff deeply into the earth of the hillside to mark the spot where the winged minstrels had appeared. It was his plan to build there a shrine where all of the shepherd tribe might come and give thanks to the Creator for the message to them at that place.

But it was the will of God that Abishai was not to see his familiar hillside again for a long, long time.

For, finding the infant Jesus as the Angel had promised, and feeling within himself the true meaning of His birth into man's world of shadows, Abishai set forth to carry the tidings to the whole country.

During the years that followed, the shepherd's staff which he had planted in the earth at the spot of annunciation, took root and grew into a flowering thorn tree.

When Jesus grew to manhood and journeyed this way during His ministry, He paused to rest in the shade of the tree. There Abishai, who had returned to his homeland, met again the infant who was now a Man.

"Why comest thou hither?" Jesus asked him. "To find Him whom the angels announced to me on the night of His birth," Abishai replied.

Jesus told him: "Find me in thy will to follow where I lead."

And He smiled upon the shepherd, who did not speak, but felt a surge of joy within himself, knowing that his mission had been fulfilled.

Mechanical Failures Add To Problems

MECHANICAL failures in snow removal equipment yesterday slowed efforts of State Highway Department employees and township road crews battling to open secondary roads snowed in over the weekend.

Joseph C. Ciampi, Monroe County superintendent for the highway department, reported eight pieces of equipment broken down.

He attributed the failures to heavy snow, drifts and the fact that the equipment has been operating 24 hours a day since the snow began Saturday.

Ciampi said his men are running into drifts ranging from five to 20 feet deep as they continue clearing secondary roads.

Several townships were also reported having equipment trouble.

Main Highways
Ciampi, for the second day in a row, said all main highways in the county are open. He estimated that about 65 percent of the county's secondary roads have been plowed and said his department expects to wind up the job "in the next few days."

He reported 32 trucks, three graders, 10 bulldozers and 100 men in action yesterday.

State Police at Stroudsburg, Mount Pocono and Pocono Lake confirmed that main highways were open and reported them in "pretty good shape."

At Lehigh, State Police said main roads were open, but in bad shape. Secondary highways were reported still closed.

State Police at Milford reported 75 percent of Pike County secondary roads opened and said the remainder should be cleared last night or today.

All main highways were reported cleared and troopers said they were in good shape traffic wise.

Bus service through the Stroudsburg resumed yesterday.

A spokesman for the local terminal said Greyhound was operating very near schedule yesterday and that Martz Bus Lines is expected to resume service from New York City and Philadelphia today.

He added that Marts' problem is not highway conditions, but the fact that most of the line's buses were in Wilkes-Barre when the storm broke and had to be moved to the two metropolitan before service could resume.

Near Normal
A Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad spokesman said the railroad's operations were "getting back to normal."

Some trains were operating on schedules, he said, while others were running a little late.

Some area employees of the Bethlehem Steel Co., their cars presumably still buried under drifts somewhere, took buses to work yesterday.

Citizens and businessmen, meanwhile, continued individual efforts to clean up the remnants of the weekend storm which dumped 23.7 inches of snow on the Stroudsburg and an unofficial 36 inches on Buck Hill Falls.

It was snowing in Mount Pocono, Stroudsburg and Newfoundland at press time this morning.

Court Stays Minimum Wages

THE Commonwealth Court, sitting in Harrisburg yesterday, issued a supersedeas writ staying two orders of the State Department of Labor and Industry which establish minimum wages and hours for women and children employed by the hotel and restaurant industry.

The writ was handed down by Judge William Neely after hotel, motel and restaurant owners challenged the legality of the state order scheduled to go into effect May 12.

The court, consisting of all five Dauphin County judges, is specifically constituted as a state-wide appellate court to hear appeals from orders issued by state administrative agencies.

The court heard arguments from counsel for the appellants and from the Department of Labor and Industry, which was represented by the attorney general's office.

C. R. Bensinger, of Stroudsburg, and Sidney Krawitz, of Milford, served as counsel for several resort owners; William Livengood for a number of Pennsylvania Hotel Assn. members, and Edward Furst for several members of the Pennsylvania Restaurant Assn.

After considering the arguments, the court issued the supersedeas order effective until March 11 and until such time thereafter as the court may direct. Further arguments on the merits of the case will be heard soon after March 11.

Counsel for the Commonwealth was directed to produce all records of proceedings before the Wage Board and make them available to the appellants by Feb. 28. Attorneys for the appellants were directed to prepare briefs and arguments as soon as the department's records are available.

The new regulations, established by the department on recommendation of its Wage Board, would triple the minimum wage scale for some workers in the industry.

The appellants contended that the board was illegally constituted because neither employees nor employers in the industry were represented in its membership, and that the wage scales were not justifiable with the board findings.

The group were guests of the 479th and 510th Signal Companies for lunch, including hot vegetable soup, fried chicken and trimmings.

For breakfast the group had bread, crusts and hot water. Tiny, whose master stocked a goodly supply of dog food, fared considerably better than his human companions during the long isolation.

Signal depot authorities reported the four South Sterling residents and Phoenix were in good condition, although tired and sleepy. They remained at the depot waiting for transportation to their homes.

Their rescue came as a three-man detachment from the Sixth Marine Truck Co. attempted to extricate its mired six-wheeled truck with which got within 100 yards of snow-bound garage.

The marines — Pvt. France Ropock, Archibald; S/Sgt. Andrew W. Sedlock, Eynon, and Sgt. James Jaskolska, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Jaskolska, Mount Pocono, left Buck Hill Falls at 4:30 p.m. Monday in their rescue attempt. Jaskolska is a former Stroudsburg High football star.

Proceeding up Route 90 and 197, the group registered 31 miles on the truck's speedometer and used 100 gallons of gas while traveling 12 actual miles.

Winter's Worst Cold Wave Brings Arctic Misery To Eastern Section Of United States

By The Associated Press
THE WINTER'S worst cold wave brought arctic misery to the eastern third of the nation again yesterday. Little relief was in sight from temperatures as low as 40 degrees below zero.

In several sections it was the coldest Feb. 18 in history. Ice threatened to close the Ohio, Mississippi and Hudson Rivers, three of the nation's great water arteries.

The death toll from the heavy weekend snow and the cold wave in 26 states neared 200. The afflicted area extended from the East Coast to Missouri and Iowa, and from Maine to Alabama. Some sections haven't had a temperature reading above freezing in 10 days.

Millions endured misery and inconvenience. Isolated rural villages ran low on fuel and food. Helicopters fluttered over the bleak countryside with relief for marooned farmers. The reaved in Upstate New York were unable to bury their dead because of six-foot snow drifts in cemeteries.

The National Guard was out in Delaware and New Jersey to open roads and bring feed to farmers. It was Delaware's worst snowstorm of this century and Atlantic City's worst winter in more than 20 years.

Air travel in the East was snarled. Scores of flights were cancelled, others operated up to 18 hours behind schedule.

The New York Central's Commodore Vanderbilt passenger train arrived in Chicago from New York nearly 20 hours late. Long delays were reported on most lines and in New England several trains were completely stalled.

Shortages of heating gas forced the evacuation of families and closed schools and industries in Kentucky and Georgia. Washington's schools remained closed and many of the capital's 250,000 federal workers stayed away from their jobs for a second day.

The Weather Bureau forecast only slight moderation for Thursday, with a renewal of colder weather over the weekend. The long-range forecast was for a month of cold weather.

Record lows for the date were 16 below in Portland, Maine; 47 below at New Haven, Conn.; 4 below at Boston; 3 above at Newark, and 4 above at New York City.

By a quirk, northern Maine had 17 above readings in some sections — warmer than Georgia's 5 above at Atlanta, and South Carolina's 14 above at Charleston.

Miami Beach, suffering through one of its worst winters in years, advertised its Monday high of 63 degrees in northern newspapers as an inducement to winter tourists.

The U. S. State Department went along with the South Korean belief that the plane was high-jacked by Communist agents. State Department press officer Lincoln White said in a statement in Washington "this would seem but another provocative act by the Communist authorities in North Korea."

Communist representatives at the Panmunjom meeting, rejected the U. N. Command's demand that the airliner and its occupants be returned. Col. Kim Joon Kyung of North Korea claimed those aboard the plane "defected because they could not stand any more of the U. S. aggressive policy against South Korea."

The Communists insisted on direct negotiations over the plane with the South Korean government, which has never recognized the Communist regime. A South Korean official said the Red demand was impossible.

GOP Favors Present Taxes
WASHINGTON, Feb. 18 (AP) — Republican leaders in Congress decided today the recession is not serious enough to justify tax reduction or a major public works program at this time.

Sen. Knowland of California said the decision would be subject to review before Congress adjourns in late July or early August.

Briefing
The GOP leaders were given a White House briefing on the economic situation by Secretary of the Treasury Anderson, Secretary of Commerce Weeks and Secretary of Labor Mitchell.

Knowland, the Senate minority leader, reported there was general agreement at the meeting that unemployment will start declining in March and that business will begin improving fairly soon thereafter without artificial stimulus.

Feeling Rises Against Egypt
KHARTOUM, Sudan, Feb. 18 (AP) — A wave of anti-Egyptian feeling erupted in this capital today following reports Cairo has sent armed men into disputed border territory.

Photographs of Egypt's President Gamal Abdel Nasser suddenly disappeared from shop windows, and the anti-Egyptian Umma party of Prime Minister Abdullah Khalil issued a call for volunteer national guardsmen to stand by for any emergency.

Ambassador
Egypt's ambassador to Khartoum confirmed at a news conference that Egyptian "electoral committees" with bodyguards had entered a disputed area in preparation for Friday's plebiscite on the United Arab Republic of Egypt and Syria.

An official Egyptian source in Cairo denied any Egyptian army troops had entered the disputed area. The source said Egyptian frontier police had moved in to protect polling booths during the plebiscite, but asserted they are not there to fight anybody.

Tunisian-French Question Turned Over To Mediators

UNITED NATIONS, N. Y., Feb. 18 (AP) — The U. N. Security Council today tossed the explosive Tunisian-French dispute into the hands of mediators. The action came after the United States and Britain declared they had affirmative proposals for a peaceful solution.

Representatives of the two Western powers, whose good offices have been accepted by France and Tunisia, did not spell out what they had in mind. But there was speculation their efforts would be extended to setting up machinery which could be used in an attempt to resolve the broad issue of the French-Algerian conflict, now in its fourth year.

Accusation
The council was called to hear a Tunisian accusation that France committed aggression in the bombing of a Tunisian border village on Feb. 8. France charged Tunisia with harboring Algerian rebels.

U. S. Ambassador James J. Wadsworth told the council his country is gratified by French-Tunisian acceptance of the U. S. British offer to aid the two countries in settling outstanding problems between them.

He added that the United States hopes to be able to offer affirmative suggestions to advance the objective of a peaceful and equitable solution of these problems.

In Paris the French government proposed a "no man's land" be set up on the Algerian side of the frontier with Tunisia to prevent border incidents. The French suggested also that the United States and Britain consider formation of a French-Tunisian border watchdog commission.

Exploratory Talks
Exploratory talks were already taking place in Tunis. Mongi Slim, ambassador of Tunisia, declared the issue includes the Algerian conflict as well as the bombing of the village of Sakiet Sidi Youssef.

But French Ambassador Guillaume Georges-Picot warned that any attempt by the council to broaden the issue to include the Algerian conflict would meet with firm opposition.

"We feel that what happened here is not an act of aggression," he declared. "France has already expressed her regret at the losses and offered to pay indemnities."

Stroud Union, Laboratory Schools Reopen Today

Others Decide To Keep Doors Closed

SCHOOLS in the Stroud Union District will reopen today after an enforced two-day vacation brought about by severe storm conditions.

All other schools in the county will remain closed, however, with one exception. That is the Laboratory School on the East Stroudsburg State Teachers College campus. It will reopen this morning.

Earl F. Groner, superintendent of Stroud Union Schools, said almost all of the main roads and a number of the secondary roads on which the school buses travel have been opened to traffic after being blocked by the heavy snowfall and by drifts.

Enrollment

Groner said indications yesterday were that between 75 and 80 percent of the Stroud Union School enrollment would be able to get to classes today.

Groner said the two days lost because of weather conditions will not have to be made up at the end of the term because the school calendar called for more than the state minimum. Any days missed from now on will have to be made up later, however.

This was only a minor factor in the decision to reopen the schools today, he explained.

In East Stroudsburg, Supervising Principal Carl T. Secor reported that a number of roads in the area served by the area joint school district were still blocked yesterday, although there was hope they would be reopened today.

The biggest drifts were said to be in the Smithfield Township and lower Pike County areas, where a considerable number of pupils reside.

Classes will resume today at the Laboratory School, which had been closed two days.

St. Matthew's Parochial School in East Stroudsburg will be closed again today, a spokesman said. If a sufficient number of roads are cleared today to permit the school buses to operate, the school will reopen Thursday.

Indefinite

The situation elsewhere in the county was indefinite. In Barrett Township, for example, Supervising Principal George Webb Jr. said about 80 percent of the township school's enrollment travels by bus, so it is practically impossible to operate unless all the roads are open.

Whether this will be Thursday, Friday or Monday was problematical, he said, since much of the equipment being used to remove the deep snow has broken down under almost constant use.

Willis Dunlap, supervising principal of the Pocono Mountains Jointure, said a survey of the various townships will be made today to determine when the schools can resume sessions.

In addition to Barrett, the jointure includes Tobyhanna Township, Coolbaugh, Pocono, Mount Pocono, Jackson and Paradise.

The same story came from John Mills of the Pleasant Valley Jointure in the West End. Despite efforts to clear township and state roads, many have not been touched yet, he said yesterday, and until they are cleared the schools will be unable to operate.

Halsteads Rescued At Wooddale

WOODDALE—Mrs. Viola E. Halstead, her three children and her girl friend were snug all right—the only trouble was that their food supply was limited.

That's why Mrs. Halstead yesterday welcomed the appearance of Garrett Halterman, who plowed out the road to her home, located about two miles off Route 90 between here and Cresco.

Then another complication arose—the battery on her automobile blew up when she attempted to start the car.

Food Low

Snowbound since Saturday, Mrs. Halstead said her food supply would have lasted only until last night.

And she concluded her telephone conversation with The Daily Record hurriedly by exclaiming: "There's someone coming up the drive now and I think we're going to get out of here."

She explained she is employed by Waring Enterprises and felt it was time she got back to work.

With her during the four-day siege were her daughters, Barbara, 12; Patricia, nine, and Alyssa, seven, and her friend, Miss Margaret Walters of Newark, N.J.

Boy Survives Tragedy

Unaffected, although he told police he was in the house when the others were stricken, was Dennis Dixon, the elder son.

The cause of death and illness in the household was reported as carbon monoxide gas by Dr. Harold Wagner, and Dr. Irving Levine, physicians who examined the victims. Source of the gas was not determined.

"Virtually all of our churches are snowed in, as well as many of the people," Father Galligan revealed last night. It was decided yesterday to change the services until tomorrow.

Ashes will be blessed at St. Mary of the Mount, Mount Pocono today, and anyone attending services at this church today may obtain ashes on their forehead if they so desire.

Medicine Dropped To Ill Boy Scout

Plane Makes Delivery To Hamlin

HAMLIN — A supply of medicine needed to sustain the life of a Boy Scout marooned until yesterday at the Goose Pond Scout Reservation was dropped to the youth from a plane based at the Tobyhanna Signal Depot.

The drop was made at 11:11 a.m. yesterday, only a short time after the boy, Butch Connelly, and other scouts had been evacuated to Hamlin when highway crews broke through snow-clogged roads leading to the camp.

The plane, an L-20 Beaver Aircraft, was flown in by Maj. Melvin Fuller, air officer at Tobyhanna Signal Depot, and Calvin Pryor.

The scouts are members of St. Mary's Troop 18 in the Greenwood district of Scranton. The Connelly boy's doctor advised scout officials that the youth's life would be in jeopardy unless the medicine reached him yesterday.

A scout leader rushed the medicine from Scranton and turned it over to Lt. Col. Edwin H. Johnson, who directed operations at the depot. The flyover with Maj. Fuller was then arranged and carried out a short time later.

Proclamation

Area Churches To Combine In 'World Day Of Prayer'

WORLD DAY of Prayer will be observed Friday in the Stroudsburg area with a special union service in the East Stroudsburg Methodist Church at 2 p.m.

All residents are urged to pause in their work for one minute at noon "to ask that God give us light to guide us, courage to support us and love to reunite us."

The four burgesses of the county issued a proclamation setting aside Friday as World Day of Prayer. The proclamation follows:

Whereas, it is the conviction of the United Council of Church Women, in fellowship with all those who seek the divine guidance of our Creator, that the many problems confronting us today can be solved only with the help of Almighty God; and

Whereas, The World Day of Prayer has been designated on an international, interdenominational, interracial basis to join the people of the world together in the fellowship of prayer; and

Whereas, in order that the Church may fulfill the important role of exerting practical witness to the fact of God's purpose in human affairs, thereby advancing the international cause of peace on earth, it is necessary that we be ever mindful of the vast power of prayer in furthering his word and his work and in combating the forces of evil that surround us;

Now, Therefore, we, the undersigned do hereby proclaim Friday, Feb. 21st, 1958, as World Day Of Prayer in our respective communities and call upon the people of this area to observe this day an individual invitation to attend a specific World Day of Prayer meeting; and if the duties of some are such as to make this impossible, we urge the people to pause in their work for one minute of prayer at High Noon, to ask that God give us light to guide us, courage to support us and love to reunite us.

Highway Crew Contacts Boy Scouts

SKYTOP — A crew of highway workers made contact yesterday with a Boy Scout troop stranded at Camp Wynooka, located off Route 390 about five miles north of here in Pike County.

The scouts, 38 in number, and several leaders and parents had been trapped at the camp by last weekend's heavy snow. They are members of Troop 152 of Waverly.

Sufficient Food The group had reported yesterday that it had sufficient food and fuel for a limited emergency and was comfortably housed in a heated shelter.

The camp is located about a quarter mile from a small store, where some provisions were obtained by several leaders who waded through deep snow to reach the store on Monday.

Red Cross Joins Hands With Signal Depot In 'Operation Food Basket'

THE RED CROSS joined hands with the Tobyhanna Signal Depot yesterday to set up "Operation Food Basket" for the benefit of families marooned in their snow-bound homes.

A helicopter and a crew from the Signal Depot flew food supplies purchased by the Red Cross to a dozen families in the Newfoundland-South Sterling-Greentown area yesterday afternoon.

In the helicopter were Col. Edward Moran, deputy commanding officer of the depot; Louis J. DePaul, Paul Callahan and Kenneth C. Benzho.

The operation was set in motion when the families' plight came to the attention of Col. Moran. Purchase of the food was authorized by Mrs. John Mott, executive secretary of the Monroe County Chapter, American Red Cross and the supplies were packed in bundles at the Depot.

Supplies Today

Several other families in dire need of food will be supplied today, a depot spokesman said last night. Bread, milk and other perishable items will form the bulk of the food bundles.

Only bonafide cases will receive consideration. It was explained, and preference will be given to families with children.

DePaul said the flight to the Newfoundland area showed that dozens of families are marooned in their homes by the deep snow. Some of them are located a mile or more from highways that are open.

Three helicopters were put into use at the depot yesterday morning. One, an H-19, was used for rescue operations and food distribution; a second H-19 was sent to Towanda and an H-34 was assigned to rescue work at Honesdale.

Late in the afternoon, the Army dispatched a fourth helicopter to the depot and three others, all H-19s are expected to arrive from Fort Monmouth, N. J., this morning. The depot also has the L-20 airplane available for air-drops.

Wounds Fatal To Otto Schafer

EAST SWITZWATER—Otto Schafer, 50-year-old proprietor of the Chestnut Grove Lodge here, died unexpectedly at his home at 12:30 a. m. yesterday.

Dr. E. O. Headrick, Monroe County deputy coroner, said death was due to a self-inflicted gun shot wound. He issued a verdict of suicide.

State Police and Mount Pocono firemen assisted Dr. Headrick in reaching the lodge, about three miles off Route 611. It had been snowbound since the heavy weekend fall.

A native of Harbach, Germany, Mr. Schafer had operated the lodge for 10 years and prior to that had been employed by the Rheingold Brewery, Brooklyn. He was the son of John and Maria Kline Schafer.

A Lutheran by faith, he was a member of Patankus Lodge, F. and A. M., New York City, and Stroudsburg Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles.

Survivors

Surviving are his wife, Irma; Gertrude Schafer, two brothers, Adam and Herman, and a sister, Miss Maria Schafer, all in Germany.

Funeral services will be held at 2 p. m. Friday in the Daniel G. Warner funeral home, Stroudsburg, with burial in East Switzwater Cemetery.

Friends may call at the funeral home after 7 p. m. Thursday.

Soble Fails In Attempt At Suicide

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 — Imprisoned Russian spy Jack Soble was reported recovering at Bellevue hospital today after a weird suicide attempt. He swallowed rivets, nuts and bolts until they threatened his life.

Soble, 55, was brought here Sunday from the Lewisburg, Pa., federal penitentiary, where he is serving a seven-year sentence for spying for Soviet Russia. He was to have testified before a federal grand jury here.

On the same afternoon, he complained of being ill. X rays revealed the hardware in his stomach and he was operated upon Monday to save his life.

U.S. Atty. Paul W. Williams said Soble swallowed 1½ pounds of metal miscellany over a period of days. He had access to the material through his work in the Lewisburg warehouse.

Largest Item

The largest item he swallowed was a 3½-inch carriage bolt. Soble, who was arrested Jan. 25, 1957, pleaded guilty to the espionage indictment in April.

Guilty pleas also were entered in the case by Soble's wife, Myra, 53, and Jacob Albam, 65, who got sentences of four and five years, respectively.

The trio was involved in a far-flung spy apparatus after they came to this country as refugees. Soble and Albam are from Lithuania, and Mrs. Soble is Russian-born.

Priority For Airport

Gov. George M. Leader has undertaken a job development program for Pennsylvania as a means of combatting the unemployment problem confronting 400,000 people.

An accelerated schedule of public works wherever possible is the heart of this so-called "crash" program. The Governor hopes to accomplish in 46 weeks what had been planned for several years in both government and non-government construction.

One of the projects which should receive top priority under the Leader program is the proposed expansion of the Pocono Mountains Airport at Mount Pocono.

The Airport Authority already has $300,000 committed for completion of the first phase of this project, but has put off awarding of the contract in the hopes of raising an additional $100,000 for a supplemental project. There is some doubt whether the last $16,666 of the $100,000 can be subscribed immediately.

Rather than postpone the project any further, we suggest that the authority move promptly to award the first-phase contract so that work can get under way at the earliest possible date this Spring.

With state officials committed to the "crash" program, any help that is needed to expedite the airport project would be forthcoming from Harrisburg. Federal and local cooperation is counted on to accelerate the $200,000,000 of public works projects in Pennsylvania to create more employment later in the year.

The first phase of the airport project, as submitted by engineering consultants, has qualified for Civil Aeronautics Administration and Pennsylvania Aeronautics Commission funds. In addition, the county commissioners are committed to spend $50,000 on the project with the remaining funds being contributed by the municipalities which belong to the authority.

Let's take advantage of these monies while they are available and thereby give a boost to the Governor's program for fighting the unemployment problem in this and other areas.

Opinions Of Other Editors

The President's Hopes

President Eisenhower's buoyant optimism about the future of business deserves a better fate than to be classed with President Hoover's cheerful predictions of 1930. The difference is one of attitude. While the former President did recommend some Government action, in the main he counted on natural forces to bring about an upturn. President Eisenhower is determined that Government shall step forcibly into the situation.

The President's resolve is that of both political parties. The avoidance of a depression is a Government responsibility, and not one to be left to the mercy of the business cycle.

President Hoover never would have suggested cutting taxes and unbalancing the budget. Eisenhower is ready to do that if it proves necessary to stimulate business.

By its huge expenditures for defense and welfare the Government is already playing a big hand in the economy of the country. Unemployment compensation is now general throughout the United States, as it was not in 1930. Severance pay for those losing jobs is widespread in private industry. Social Security extends its benefits to millions of families.

Congress responded to Europe's financial crisis of 1930 by the singularly unenlightened step of boosting our tariffs against imports. President Eisenhower moves in the opposite direction, realizing the gains to our own economy as well as Europe's to be had by lowering trade barriers.

The means to head off a depression and the will to use them are both present in Washington. These are the basis for the President's optimism and the hopes of the nation.

Robert S. Allen Reports...

More Vanguard 'Shoots'

Washington, Feb. 18—There are to be six more attempts to orbit Vanguard satellites in outer space.

Far from a bandwagon this major U.S. contribution to the International Geophysical Year, Defense Secretary McElroy has approved Navy plans to proceed with preparations for six more Vanguard "shoots."

The next one is scheduled to take place in a few days. Navy scientists privately estimate the prospects of success of this third firing as better than 60-40.

They are basing this back-stage confidence on the belief that most of the "bugs" have been eliminated from the temperamental Vanguard missile; particularly a key fuel valve which failed in both of the two previous firings.

This valve worked perfectly in the most recent stationary test.

The impending Vanguard firing will undertake to orbit a 6.4 inch satellite weighing approximately 4 pounds. If that is done, the next Vanguard satellite shot into space will be 20 inches and weigh 21½ pounds.

Two factors primarily determined Secretary McElroy to authorize the Navy to continue the expensive planning for six more Vanguard "shoots":

Numerous mechanical and other difficulties which would have to be overcome to adapt the Vanguard satellite to the Army's very effective Jupiter-C, which recently orbited this country's first earth-orbiting satellite. The Explorer and the Vanguard satellites are of distinctly different shapes, and the cost and delay in applying the latter to a Jupiter-C is deemed prohibitive.

Vanguard missiles are more advanced devices than the Explorer. For scientific purposes, the real objective of these satellites, Vanguard is of greater value than Explorer. The former contains many times the instrumentation of the latter.

Backstage Comparison—The scientific differences of these two pioneering satellites were explained by Dr. John Hagen, director of Vanguard, at a private meeting of the House Armed Services Committee.

Without in any way minimizing the historic importance of Explorer, Dr. Hagen pointed out that Vanguard has a much bigger "scientific payload." This missile was developed specifically for outer space "missions" while Explorer is primarily an orbiting device.

"In that event," asked Rep. George Huddleston, Jr. (D., Ala.), "are we meeting our International Geophysical Year commitments with Explorer?"

"With Explorer," replied Hagen, "there is not present the kind of scientific payload that was contemplated in the IGY program. Explorer has a scientific payload, and a very good one for that type of satellite. But it is not as complete as was originally planned, and what we do have in Vanguard."

"How many Explorers would have to be orbited to obtain the scientific information for which we are committed in the IGY program?" continued Huddleston.

"For various matters I have outlined to you," said Dr. Hagen, "it would be necessary to put up between six and ten Explorers. For these purposes, it would require that many Explorers to do what one Vanguard satellite will accomplish."

Note: Republican members of Congress facing tough re-election fights are getting reassured word about globe-circling satellites. From Representative Richard Simpson, Pa., chairman of the GOP Congressional Campaign Committee, they have received a memorandum titled "What Is Ahead Of Explorer," and stating: "Now that the initial step has been taken, the skies, in the months ahead, will be sprinkled with American satellites. There will be Army Sputniks; Navy Sputniks; and Air Force Sputniks. Defense officials say privately there could be as many as two dozen American Sputniks in outer space before this year is over."

Sensational Fallout — Research in thermonuclear power is progressing so well that the Atomic Energy Commission has begun "consideration of problems involved in building a large pilot machine which would produce net power." That's what Atomic Chairman Lewis Strauss has informed the Joint Atomic Committee in a significant report that is about to be made public. It also discloses that in the past year "studies of chemical and material problems were begun on a small scale at Oak Ridge National Laboratory." Another exciting piece of information is that "at the University of California Radiation Laboratory, Livermore, work has continued with a variety of promising machines which may produce thermonuclear neutrons in the very near future."

Speaker Sam Rayburn (D., Tex.) has become very gloomy about the chances of the natural gas bill. Since last week's sensational exposure of a fund-raising letter sent to oilmen by Texas' Republican National Committee, Rayburn is talking colleagues. "This measure is a gone goose. I see no chance for it getting anywhere in this session."

The veteran Texan has quietly dropped his previous plan to bring the measure before the House for a vote this month. Says Rayburn, "That would just be a slaughter under the circumstances that now prevail. The bill will never be brought out for a vote, as far as I'm concerned, unless I am absolutely sure it will be passed. Otherwise, it's staying right where it is in committee."

The Minneapolis Gas Company is circulating among members of Congress with reproductions of newspaper accounts of Porter's boomeranging letter and $100-a-plate fund-raising dinner.

Riddle Of The Washington Sphinx

George Sokolsky Says...

Simple Economics

In the old-fashioned capitalist economies the determining factor in all situations was the free market. In a word, the law of supply and demand decided prices, wages, profits, prosperity of bad times. Of course, the law of supply and demand was often impaired by natural or unnatural causes such as earthquakes and other disasters generally referred to as acts of God, and wars, rebellions, revolutions and such acts of man.

In recent years, the capitalist countries have been profoundly affected by the economic philosophy of John Maynard Keynes and his disciples. Their ideas have had their greatest vogue in the United States where they went by the name of the New Deal. Separated from the jargons of the scholars, these ideas may be stated quite simply as follows:

1. Taxes are to be employed not only as a means of raising revenue for the government but also to control the operations of the economy.

2. When times are bad, the government intervenes (pump priming) to get the economy moving and supports are provided (subsidies, farm relief, etc.) to maintain and protect the economy.

What Keynes could not explain was how, in a country such as ours, it is possible to get rid of special interest benefits, which subsidies and relief are, even in the most prosperous times. After all, elections come every second year and there is too little time between elections for the politicians to become statesmen, even temporarily. The result is that most subsidies for individuals or groups, established as emergencies during a depression or a war, have continued in time of peace.

As the subsidies and reliefs became permanent, the cost of government rose, taxes rose, the value of the dollar fell, and the high cost of living plagued the people.

To avoid inflation in a period of declining currency value, the government resorted to devices which made money tight in a country whose day-by-day postponable purchases are based upon credit. As soon as money became tight, the economy began to move in the direction of a depression so that now we have about 5,000,000 unemployed.

The President believes that he can solve this by March which seems impossible. In 1956, the revenue from income taxes amounted to $56,000,000,000 as compared with $2,188,000,000 in 1939. The total amount taken out of private possessions by the government in 1956 was $78,820,000,000 as compared with $5,667,000,000 in 1939. It was not all necessary expenditures as was established by the Hoover Reports and various Congressional investigations.

Now the question that faces the Eisenhower Administration is what to do about the oncoming depression. The President's program has not yet been clearly stated and except for a little pump priming by some modernization of the Post Office, little seems to be planned.

The largest number of returns are in the class of those who have incomes from $600 a year to $10,000 a year. Those who earn between $500,000 and $1,000,000 and over number very few, roughly between 500 and 600 returns. If we could find a way of recovering American money from tax and profit havens abroad, this number could be increased, but not too much.

The number of returns, for incomes of between $5,000 and $10,000 will run over 12,000,000 and produced in 1953 (last complete figures available in the "Statistical Abstract") $10,000,000,000 as against $169,000,000 for those who earned more than $1,000,000 a year.

The core of the purchasing power of both immediate and postponable purchases lies among those who earn between $3,000 and $10,000 a year and when this element find money tight, postponable purchases, that is, automobiles, television, radio, refrigerators, additional clothing, suffer.

A movement downward in cuts of meat appears. But it is the postponable items which affect employment most sharply and therefore influence the social factors in the economy most violently.

It would seem logical therefore to make it possible for those who, having earned income, put the money back in circulation, to have a break by cutting taxes. Until that is done, buyer's resistance to postponable items will continue to rise.

This, then, is the problem that faces the Eisenhower Administration. Wind, weather, drought and flood, political conditions near and far, all are effective factors in the development of economic conditions. Those without knowledge and imagination fall before the onslaught of these forces when times are troubled.

The Pennsylvania Story

Dilworth's Shocker

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — Lack of agreement among top brass of the Democratic Party on a gubernatorial candidate actually is not viewed with too serious concern at the moment.

Re a son for this is that the off-stage power moves on the subject now being held — somewhat fitfully at best — are more perfunctory prelude than anything else, a necessary adjunct to the time-worn campaign picture.

Biggest shocker of the campaign undoubtedly will be recorded in the defection over the week end of Philadelphia Mayor Richardson Dilworth as a gubernatorial candidate.

It is no understatement to say that his withdrawal decision was one of the most stunning and unexpected moves to bluster across the snowy Pennsylvania scene.

It caught even the staunchest of supporters and top party brass of the Democratic Party with their campaign flags at half mast. The Dilworth decision was a typical one.

It was sudden and a typical flare-up of the Quaker City mayor whose spouting outbursts have become notorious, and it might be added—unpredictable.

The Westinghouse strike case and the more recent U. S.-should-recognize-red China incident are typical Dilworthian foot-in-the-mouth excursions that have sent top party brass to the walling wall-and which culminated in their protestations and Dilworth's withdrawal as a gubernatorial candidate.

The episode has been one steeped in irony — for every indication around Capitol Hill had pointed to the fact that Dilworth in the end would handsomely gain the full support of Democratic kinsmen and the State Committee in the gubernatorial maneuverings.

On the surface the primary hold-out in the endorsement of the Dilworth candidacy was Philadelphia Democratic Chairman William J. Green.

However the inside fact is that regardless of how much general Bill Green may have disliked the thought of having his factional rival gain the blessing, simple political expediency was expected to outweigh, in his ultimate support of Dilworth.

What many fail to realize is that Philadelphia Green is an old pol of the old school.

Green rarely has been known to enter his endorsement of a candidate for any office in the early stages. His basic tactic has been one of delay — with the usually successful hope of emerging with the top or crucial hand.

In tough, ward-ridden Philadelphia he needs such a stick to control his organization — an organization still bedrocked and smothered in precinct discipline.

For these reasons Green's hold-out in the endorsement of fellow Philadelphia Dilworth was not viewed as serious. Today, no matter what may be said, Richardson Dilworth's withdrawal is viewed as a tremendous Green victory.

His hand again has been strengthened.

It is true that Philadelphia has climbed tremendously in recent years insofar as influence within the Democratic Party is concerned.

It does not however enjoy the virtual dictatorial power the Quaker City once enjoyed in GOP circles when Republicans held a tight-fisted rein on the city.

Nevertheless the punch is there. Although Philadelphia Dilworth has stepped out of the gubernatorial picture—the Quaker City organization now headed by hard-driving Bill Green is destined to have an even stronger voice on the Democratic gubernatorial front.

Good Evening Ladies!

Waitress Gets Even

By Ken Duvall

As has been indicated here before, I am inordinately fond of waitresses. In a gentlemanly sort of way, especially of late years, and I like to have them look upon me as a confidant, and champion of the poor working girl who heaven is supposed to protect.

It was with extreme pleasure, therefore, that I read about the Missouri waitress who pushed a chocolate pie into the face of a customer, broke a few dishes over his head and walked off the job.

The news dispatches failed to say just what this customer did, but I'm sure he belongs in one of the following classifications:

The gent who calls the waitress "Sister," pats her arm, and after ordering 35 cents worth of food asks her what time she gets off. This is the chowder-head who thinks that a girl who is willing to work like a dog for a living would be a pushover for a cheap Lathrop like him.

The indecisive type who keeps the girl waiting with poised pad for five minutes while he makes up his fuzzy mind, finally decides on roast beef, lets her reach the kitchen door and then calls her back to change it to chicken a la king.

The take-it-back guy, usually a pompous party who wants the whole restaurant to know he is used to good food. He thrusts a gingerly fork into the entrées, takes a wary taste, clouts up, bangs his knife on the water glass and announces loudly that his steak is overdone and when he wants a rare steak he wants a rare steak.

He bawls out the girl on the premise that, even if she didn't personally grill his steak, she should have stood over the cook while it was being done. This fellow has driven dozens of waitresses into bad marriages to escape restaurant work.

Another Type of Heel

The amateur economist who thinks he knows what every item on the menu should sell for to bring a fair profit, and who thinks the waitress sets the prices. He whoops in a loud voice about being overcharged, accuses the girl of adding in the place's street number and calls her a profiteer. She straps fifteen miles a day chasing dimes and then walks home to save bus fare, and she's a profiteer!

Some men with expensive tastes and a greasy spoon purse demand perfect service even in a hamburger diner. They yell for the manager and want the waitress fired because they got French fries instead of hashed brown, which they say they ordered. They should have a bowl of soup over his head, with noodles for ear-dress.

Then there is the butter fiend. He eats his butter patties faster than the waitress can keep him supplied and then screams when it shows up on the check. He's consumed a quarter of a pound of the stuff and thinks a dime is inflationary. He'll never eat in this place again, he says, which breaks the waitress' heart and she goes to the kitchen to cry.

When the cop went after this Missouri waitress, her landlady said she's gone to Texas. If she fails to find asylum there, I'll give her shelter until the heat is off.

Behind The Scenes

Hollywood — Very narrow escape for Rhonda Fleming's son, Kent.

He and six other kids were in a pickup truck which skidded on wet pavement, hit a curb and turned over.

All the kids were dumped out. One boy suffered a broken collarbone and Rhonda's son had his ankle fractured.

"Kent has been staying temporarily with his grandparents," says Rhonda. "He didn't call me about the accident until the next morning. His leg is in a cast now, of course, but he's back at school on crutches."

With her bags packed to fly to the carnival at Rio De Janeiro, Linda Darnell was stricken with what was feared to be appendicitis. Turned out to be the virus, but she had to miss the trip. To make up for the disappointment, husband Robbie Robertson is flying her to Honolulu for a two-week vacation.

While Natalie Wood is honeymooning, younger sister Lana Lisa is doing the acting honors for the family.

Lana will play Charlton Heston's daughter in the Playhouse 90 live show, "Point of No Return." This isn't her first live TV experience. She portrayed Dana Wynter as a child in "Winter Dreams."

I heard that Tony Curtis might shave his head for Stanley Kramer's "The Defiant Ones," but Tony says no.

"We may butcher me up a little," he admits, "to make it look like I've been in a chain gang for a while—maybe build up the bridge of my nose and try a sort of a convict haircut—but no head shave."

There also are special seats on every train for invalids and ladies expecting bundles from heaven — a fine idea that managers of American urban rail systems well might borrow.

Different Tune In Vogue Now

by Jim Riley

They're singing a different tune now and they're making the music with snow shovels.

People who remember a way back when, have been saying in recent months that we don't have winters like in the days of old.

But, these same people are now strangely quiet.

The 30 inches of snow that covered the Pocono Mountains last Saturday and Sunday has put an entirely different complexion on the situation, one that will last until the warm winds of April.

The weatherman calls for temperatures to run 10 or 15 degrees below normal for the next month, which means our current supply of snow will dwindle very slowly.

If we should get any more sizable falls on top of this already huge base, we'll be in some real trouble.

Storms of the type which struck the area last weekend do two things. They unite neighbors into a smooth working team and brings heroes of one form or another to the front.

Stories which have appeared in The Daily Record in recent days prove just what ordeals some people have gone through since the snow fell. These same stories have also made public what other people have done to help their friends in need.

Reports of ordeals in the storm have swamped the editorial room at the Record. We have found many to be false and others only too true. But, of course, there are certainly many occurrences that haven't been brought to our attention or which we haven't discovered.

Anyone wishing to tell us of any storm instances that haven't been printed are invited to do so as soon as possible.

Neighbors and friends banded together to shovel large areas of snow, free cars and assist in whatever way possible. This teamwork has made possible snow removable tasks that appear utterly impossible at first glance.

The shoveling grind will continue for many days. It's a tiresome task, but there's some help in the fact that we haven't been called to do any shoveling of this type in recent years.

Although the situation may appear bleak at times, we find satisfaction in the fact that both power and telephone service remained in use throughout the entire ordeal.

Storms without power and telephone service are especially tough on humanity.

Remember the big storm of the 1946-47 Winter? Even the stores used candles for light that year.

Yes, things certainly could be worse.

Yes, things certainly could be worse.

Yes, things certainly could be worse.

Yes, things certainly could be worse.

Woman's Club Elects New Officers

Newfoundland: Officers for 1958 were elected by the Greene-Dreher-Woman's Club at the February meeting, and will be installed at the March birthday dinner.

Elected president, succeeding Mrs. Gertrude Lupcho, was Mrs. Frances VanBuskirk, of Panther. Mrs. Edith Robacker, Newfoundland, was chosen secretary, succeeding Mrs. Anne M. Smith, of Angela. Mrs. Joan Hutchins, Greentown, was named to follow Mrs. Virginia Baughan, of South Sterling, as treasurer.

The new officers will be installed during the 20th birthday dinner on March 11 at The Lancaster, South Sterling. The event, which begins at 6:30 P.M., will feature dinner prepared and served by Mrs. Catherine Edwards, South Sterling. Reservations may be sent to Mrs. Anne Smith.

Mrs. Gloria Maloney, Newfoundland, was welcomed as a new member. It was reported that Mrs. Nina Hopps, Greentown, is again a patient at Wayne Memorial Hospital, Honesdale.

Leland Cramer, supervising principal of Greene-Dreher-Sterling Joint School, attended the meeting and presented a list of suggestions for the annual school project as requested by the club. The proposals were discussed and a decision will be made at the March meeting.

It was announced that a book will be placed in the school library in memory of Mrs. Mary D. London, who died early this week.

The unit voted to send Mrs. VanBuskirk as a delegate to the Pennsylvania State Federation of Woman's Clubs Convention in Harrisburg on June 11-13. At the close of the business session, Mrs. VanBuskirk presented "World of Ideas" for the home through the courtesy of the Consumer Relations Department of Celanese Corporation of America. Dress yardage was awarded to Mrs. Genevieve Voeste.

Serving on the refreshment committee were Helen Feigel, Estella Christman, Jacqueline Croft, Helen Cron, Constance Edwards, Loretta Evans, Marge Felton, Iva Fitz and Lydia Frey. Mrs. VanBuskirk and her committee will be in charge of table decorations at the birthday dinner.

Just Between Us—

—By Bobby Westbrook

A housewife, caught by unexpected company with her cub-board bare, who manages to get a meal on the table that looks almost respectable will know just how I feel this morning. By what my daughter used to call "the ironing of fate," I get the biggest page of the year on the day when the social calendar was absolutely wiped clean of meetings.

Well, the big bride helped, not only by taking up a lot of room, but by giving us something to look at besides snow—and to think about, too, what with June and our own brides not too far away.

And there is an undercurrent of stirring in the social pot—nothing like a full, rolling boil but the bubbles are gathering around the bottom and up the sides and I feel like cheering when a bubble really reaches the surface—like the BPWC really going on with their meeting.

Well, they say a watched pot never boils—and I took time off from watching this one to go home and check up on the cat. I doubt if I'd have dared it except that two loyal friends and true volunteered to go with me.

Garbed for the Antarctic—

We made it, found the cat fat and sassy but mighty lonely, in the cellar, particularly frustrated with a sassy robin outside making faces at him through the cellar window.

We made it out again, too, and in the process tramped down quite a respectable trail. A few more times and I won't have to blaze the bushes to get in again. In the process, we got pretty wet and wind-blown.

In that condition, we stopped in to visit Henri Baldwin, who thought the space men had finally landed from the looks of us. Now there's a place to set up a social desk in the hospital shop at the hospital. There's a lot more going on than at Seventh and Main, including Horace Strunk in tasteful striped bathrobe.

Everybody was still talking about THE social appearance of the week when Frank LeBar, in dark top coat, grey bomburg, white scarf and red carnation boutonniere, left for home amid admiring "ah's" and everybody's best wishes.

P.S. The Randolphs have milk—16 quarts of it, packed in overland by those intrepid adventurers Rod MacLeod and Bill Johnson.

Wesleyan Guild Working On Layettees

The February meeting of the Wesleyan Guild of the Stroudsburg Methodist Church was held last week in the church parlor.

At the business meeting, with Mrs. Robert Widmer presiding, plans were made for a bake sale to be held the end of the month. Members also reported on the progress of the items for the layette which they are making for the Methodist Children's Hospital. A collection was taken to purchase diapers and receiving blankets to be added to the layettes.

Mrs. Edward Horn Sr. of Tannersville as guest speaker told of her 30 years experience as a missionary with her husband in Japan.

Refreshments were served at a Valentine table by Mrs. Olive Stetler, Mrs. Lorraine Remy and Mrs. Joan Toms.

Never use candles on a lunch-table unless the day is dark and they are lit.

Don't Be Too Critical Of Your Own Motives

By Anne Heywood

Sometimes I think we are too concerned, nowadays, with motivation. We turn a coldly critical eye on our "reasons why," and emerge with a lot of unnecessary guilt feelings.

What if our motives aren't the best in the world? If what we do is good, let's relax about why we do it.

Successful Shop
I was reminded of this by a letter I received recently from a woman who has a very successful dress shop. I had heard a little about her and wrote to get more details.

Well, it was quite a story. She was the youngest of eight children. She had worn hand-me-downs all her life until she left home, at eighteen.

"I have a passion for new clothes that only the youngest of eight can have," she wrote, then went on to tell how she worked in an exclusive dress shop, and married a man who was very well-to-do.

All Took Jobs
"For years, I loafed," she wrote. "And then all my friends got jobs or started fascinating businesses, or took up creative hobbies. I began to feel so out of things that I decided to start a small dress shop for low-income working girls—the kind of place I would have loved to find when I first started working."

She went on to tell how her business grew and prospered and what a boon it was to career girls.

Wanted Prestige
"But I doubt it would make much of a story," she concluded sheepishly. "After all, I only started it because I wanted prestige, wanted to be able to hold my head up along with the rest of my friends."

Here is a woman putting herself through unnecessary misery and losing out on the fun of feeling a sense of accomplishment because she thinks her motive isn't a good one!

As a matter of fact, there's nothing inherently wrong with wanting prestige. It's only wrong if we go after it by becoming a gangster or something equally harmful.

If the truth were told, many of the best accomplishments in the world have been motivated by the desire for prestige, or by fear of insecurity, or even downright jealousy!

She Was Jealous
As one of my readers wrote: "Last year, my neighbor made money from her pies. I was so jealous that I decided to sell my fruitcakes this Christmas. Now I have a nice little home business, and my neighbor is a customer, just as I am a customer of hers. But I never would have started it if I hadn't been jealous!"

That's what I call a really creative use of jealousy!

These Thrifty Recipes Are High In Taste Appeal

By Alice Denhoff
Smoked Beef Tongue, served with a delicious sauce, is mighty good fare. It's easy on the budget, too.

As for the sauce, here is a recipe that really raises beef tongue to epicurean heights. However, it requires careful preparation.

To boil the tongue, soak it several hours, or overnight, in cold water. Cover with cold water. Add tsp. allspice and simmer, covered, approximately 3 hours or until very tender.

Trim off roots and slip off skin. Save 2 c. stock. Keep hot.

To Make Sauce
To prepare sauce, put tsp. butter in saucepan. Stir in tsp. flour and add a medium-sized finely chopped onion and cook about 5 min., stirring constantly.

Gradually add the 2 c. beef tongue stock and boil 5 min. longer.

Add a finely sliced and quartered lemon, ¼ c. sliced, blanched almonds, ¼ c. raisins, 2 whole cloves, ¼ tsp. ground cinnamon and tsp. vinegar. Sweeten with tsp. maple syrup and 4 tsp. sugar, caramelized by cooking over low heat until liquefied and brown.

Cook 45 min., until sauce is well reduced.

Place tongue in sauce. Boil together, basting tongue, 20 min. Remove tongue, slice and serve covered with the sauce.

Mustard Mayonnaise
A Mustard Mayonnaise Sauce will give a lift to cold tongue.

To prepare this sauce, beat 1 egg yolk together with ¼ tsp. salt, ¼ tsp. pepper, dash of paprika, ¼ tsp. dry mustard, dash cayenne, ¼ tsp. tumeric, ¼ tsp. sugar and 2 tsp. herbs, chopped fine. Add tsp. vinegar. Then cover and cook over low heat, 20 min. or until potatoes are tender.

Add franks and cook until heated through. Serve at once.

Thrifty Dish
Here is a recipe that homemakers should keep tucked in an easy-to-reach place for it is a thrifty, quickly-prepared main dish that both youngsters and adults will enjoy.

To serve 4, cut 6 frankfurters, lengthwise, in quarters. Cook ¼ c. minced onions in 2 tsp. bacon drippings for 5 min. Then add 3 pared and diced, medium-sized potatoes, 1 can tomato paste, ¼ (tomato paste) can of water, tsp. salt and ¼ tsp. pepper.

Cover and cook over low heat, 20 min. or until potatoes are tender.

Add franks and cook until heated through. Serve at once.

CHESTNUT HILL, elementary and high school will send approximately 50 pupils and students to the first annual Monroe County Scholastic Basketball Clinic.

Bill Frear, head basketball coach of the Hillers, will head the entourage to Stroudsburg High's gymnasium Saturday.

It is expected that close to 700 students—5th grade through high school—and some adults will take in the brain-child of T. Manning (Cap) Curtis, Stroudsburg High athletic director.

Clair Bee, former Long Island University coach and Baltimore of the NBA, will be the tutor in which East Stroudsburg High's varsity five will demonstrate.

Classes begin at 10 a.m. and run through to 3 p.m.

Marty Baldwin informs us that North Carolina State is very much interested in securing the basketball ability of Ted Williams, Stroudsburg High's and Lehigh Valley League's leading point-getter.

Everett Case, coach of NCS and one-time tutor at Baldwin's coaches clinic, wrote Marty the other day seeking all the available data on Ted.

While all these schools are dickering for the services of the 6-5 Mountaineer, it appears that one year in prep school will be in line for Williams. The son of Attorney Ed Williams just passed his 17th birthday and is considered young for the college ranks.

ANSWER TO BRC OF ESSTC—Our nomination for the most underrated basketball player in the area is Karl Weigner of East Stroudsburg State Teachers' varsity quintet.

Weigner, a fairly consistent scorer in the double figures, is the "workhorse" of the Warriors. While not as prolific a point-getter as some of his mates, "Wiggy" comes through when the going is the roughest.

Defensively he is one of the best or best on the "Hill." Despite his lack of height—not quite 6-foot—Weigner manages to outbounce taller foes off the defensive banks.

He's the type player that seldom glitters via box scores, but game in and game out contributes as much to a team as his more pronounced mates.

Dr. Gall Fegley, Henry Baustein and Dick Don Greiner are planning a trip to the National Collegiate Athletic Association's regional tournament in Madison Square Garden in New York City in March.

The true basketball diehards hope to glimpse Temple's presently not losing Owls in one of the Garden settings.

We Wonder—when Stroudsburg High and East Stroudsburg are going to play its second "battle of the boroughs" basketball game?

It was scheduled for Feb. 28 at East Stroudsburg but the Mountaineers, without informing Eastburg aides, rescheduled its postponed Lehigh Valley League game with Palmyerton for the 28th.

Eastburg, while not bitter over the "call off" are not exactly happy over the turn of events.

It was proposed that the game be played on Tuesday, March 3, but up to this point Cavalier officials are not leaning toward this move.

One Eastburg aide said, "This is one game we count on for a big gate. We figure the switch from Feb. 28 has cost us at least one-third of the expected turnout already."

West Chester Holds Lead In Teachers Court Chase

JOHNSTOWN, Pa.—West Chester continues to lead the 14-team pack in the mad scramble for the championship of the Pennsylvania State Teachers Colleges Basketball Conference.

However, the Rams have a hard row to hoe in their remaining four conference games, especially those two games at Millersville and Bloomsburg. The return engagement at Millersville takes place next Saturday where the Marauders await to repeat last year's revenge performance.

ESSTC Girls Sextette, Matmen Plan Contests

Warriorettes At Home, Wrestlers At Shippensburg

WEATHER PERMITTING, safe roads and available officials, East Stroudsburg Teachers girls varsity basketball team and "Hill" matmen will engage in contests today.

The Warriorettes will host Panzer College's lassies in the ESSTC gymnasium at 4 p.m., while ESSTC's wrestlers will travel to Shippensburg for a duel with the Red Raiders, starting at 7:30 p.m.

Oscar J. Liljenstein, head of the physical education department of ESSTC, announced yesterday that if one official—from Northampton—can procure another arbiter and get through to the "Hill" gymnasium, the game with Panzer will take place.

The one obstacle in the way of the "Hill" grapplers and their match with Shippensburg is bad roads. Liljenstein was waiting for a report early today before giving the final decision on the trip to the Red Raiders' lair.

Seek No. 5
The Warriorettes, the area's only unbeaten team, will after its fifth straight conquest of the season. Coach Anne Vanezia, with a veteran outfit, guided ESSTC by four opponents with comparative ease thus far.

George Ockershausen's grappler's, 34 on the year, made one of its better showing in their last win over Brooklyn Poly Tech.

Ex-Konkrete Kid 2nd In Scoring

PHILADELPHIA, Feb. 18—Lou Jordan of Cornell continued to lead the Ivy League basketball scoring race after last week's games although Penn Capt. Dick Cencositz moved into a threatening position.

League statistics, including last Saturday's games, showed the Cornell junior in front with an average of 19.2 points a game. He has made 178 points in nine league games.

Cencositz, a senior from Northampton, Pa., scored 33 points against Columbia to move into second place with a 173 point total and a 19.2 average. His 33 points was the league's one-game high for the season.

Stroudsburg, Catty Tilt Postponed

IT'S OFF AGAIN. This time indefinitely. That's what Mahlon Serfass, faculty manager of athletics at Stroudsburg High, said in announcing that the Mountaineers' Lehigh Valley League game with Catawqua on the Rough Riders court was postponed for the second time.

Serfass said that the third replay date is up to the Catawqua officials. Catty has had no school since last Friday due to bad roads near the school.

Horse Racing Enjoys Best Cash Season

LEXINGTON, Ky., Feb. 18—Horse racing, including runners and trotters, had its greatest season in 1957, figures of the National Assn. of State Racing Commissioners showed today.

A grand total of 41,365,295 persons attended the flat, harness and fair tracks where parimutuel wagering is legalized, compared with 40,099,489 in 1956.

Of this, the running tracks in 24 states reported 28,850,654 fans in 1957, and 28,625,037 the previous year. The 11 states with parimutuel harness tracks reported attendance of 10,739,637 last season, compared with 9,787,714 in 1956.

Turnover
The parimutuel turnover in 1957 was $2,928,452,135, with $2,225,109,521 at running tracks and $616,208,724 for the trotters. The 1956 totals were $2,791,173,865, $2,472,449, and $336,880,384.

Total revenue to the states was $216,718,962 in 1957, compared to $207,456,272 in 1956.

Parimutuel turnover in New York was $804,633,253, the runners reporting $416,875,863 and trotters $387,757,390.

The running and trotting tracks contributed $17,670,007 in revenue to New York State, with $44,902,736 from flats and $32,767,271 from harness racing.

Retain Race, 'Cake Title

LIBERAL, Kan., Feb. 18—The flapjack flippers of Olney, England, retained their international pancake racing title today on a repeat performance by a factory worker.

Running on a winding 415-yard course in Olney, Sandra Sibley, 19, sprinted across the finish line in 1 minute 10.8 seconds to shade Mary Collingwood, 25, who scampered around a similar course in Liberal in 1 minute 12 seconds.

The victory gave Olney a 5-4 edge in the annual Shrove Tuesday competition between the women of the two cities.

Won In '57
Both Miss Sibley and Miss Collingwood won their respective races last year, but the English girl turned the trick eight seconds faster than the Liberal winner.

In winning in 1957, Miss Sibley returned to Olney the international trophy, a silver skillet which Liberal had held three years in a row.

Use the "V" Grip for Short Hook

IT'S SPINNING action of the ball, not merely speed, that mixes pins and knocks them down for high scores. Moreover, a short, sharp hook is of ten more effective than a wide sweeping curve. That's where the "V" grip comes in.

The "V" grip derives its name from the angle formed by the thumb and index finger. The thumb at the start is turned to the left, at approximately 9 o'clock. It remains fixed in that position during the push-away and into the backswing. This produces a short hook that breaks consistently and powerfully under firm control.

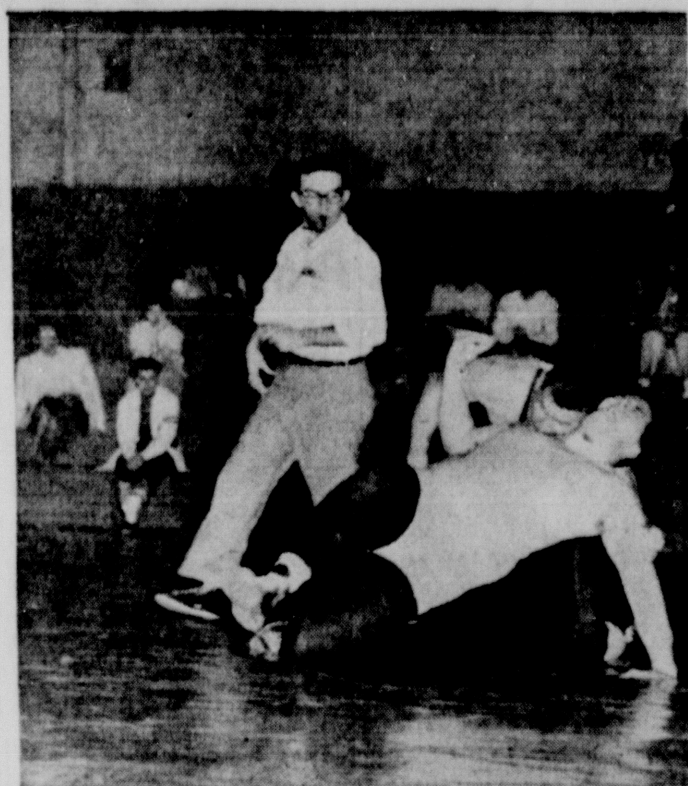

On the backswing, the weight of the ball in motion turns the wrist slightly to the right. Don't restrict the turn. The action is much like turning a door knob. It is never a twist, and it should not be pronounced. The sketch shows where this action begins.

Turn Wrist Slightly
Notice that as the backswing is almost completed, the wrist has turned very little. The fingers are slightly to the right of the thumb line.

There is another slight turning action at the top of the swing. As the ball drops into its groove and swings forward, the turning action is reversed. This, with arm life at the point of release, imparts spinning action to the ball. So you see, wrist twist and extra speed are not only unnecessary, but undesirable.

Tribe Sends Catcher Hegan, Hurler To Tigers For Pair

CLEVELAND, Feb. 18—Catcher Jim Hegan, a Cleveland Indian for 17 years and a favorite of Tribe fans and players, was dealt to the Detroit Tigers today in a four-player, no-money trade.

For the big Irishman, who will be 28 in August, and for south-paw Hank Aguirre, the Indians got catcher J. W. Porter and south-paw Harold Woodshick, a pair of 25-year-olds.

Cleveland's General Manager Frank Lane said the deal was an effort to ring more youth into the wigwag.

Likes Porter
Lane has a high regard for the potential of Porter, whom he signed for a $65,000 bonus in 1951 when he was general manager of the Chicago White Sox. In 58 games last season Porter hit .250.

Woodshick and Aguirre, 26, have yet to prove themselves. Each had a disappointing 1957 season. Aguirre was 6-13 with San Diego and 1-1 with the Tribe.

Old Marks
Monckton set records Saturday in the 110-yard and 100-meter backstroke and contributed to a record medley relay.

Contributing to the record-smashing aspect of this meet in Melbourne's olympic pool is the fact that the International Swimming Federation ruled last August that records set over courses shorter than 50 meters or 55 yards no longer were acceptable.

Virtually the entire record book was rewritten then; old marks were eliminated and new record distances added.

News of the trade came as a surprise to Hegan who was one of three unsigned Indians. The catcher said he and Lane were "pretty far apart" on salary. Hegan's pay last year was estimated at around $27,500. But he played in only 58 games and batted .216 compared with his life-time average of .230.

Changes Mind
But later today Detroit General Manager John McHale talked with Hegan by telephone and said Hegan agreed to sign. McHale quoted Hegan as saying "glad to be with the Tiger organization."

Russ Nixon and Hal Naragon, and for part of the season rookie Dick Brown, shared the Tribe's backstopping chores with Hegan last year, and all are back for 1958.

"It's tough to leave after all these years," Hegan said. "It's been a long time."

EAST Stroudsburg High's Lehigh, Northampton League game with Parkland has been postponed indefinitely, Cavalier faculty manager of athletics Robert Burrows said yesterday.

Vets Battle On TV: Keed 8-5 Choice

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 18—Cuba's Kid Gavilan at 32 was an 8 to 5 favorite today to whip Ralph (Tiger) Jones on a 10-round fight here tomorrow night.

Gavilan, who arrived here last week weighing 149, has put on extra pounds since then and is expected to weigh in at 154 to approximately 156 for Jones.

Gavilan scored a decision over Jones back in 1953 and the veteran "Keed" from Camaguey added the extra pounds in the last few days to cope with the heavier Jones, according to Yamil Chade, manager of the Cuban.

Won 106
Gavilan, whose speciality is the bolo punch which he swings upward from close to the floor, has had 139 fights since 1943, winning 106, including 29 by knockouts.

Jones, 29, although unranked, is considered a "spoiler" in the middleweight division. The Brooklyn boxer has had 69 fights, winning 44. An aggressive fighter, Jones uses both hands well and throws punches in all directions.

The fight will be televised nationally (ABC) starting at 10 p.m.

NCAA, Pitt To Air Proposal

PITTSBURGH, Feb. 18—Representatives of the National Collegiate Athletic Assn. will meet with University of Pittsburgh officials tomorrow to discuss a tentative proposal that the pro football Pittsburgh Steelers be permitted to use Pitt Stadium.

The NCAA has voiced opposition to having professional teams use the facilities of colleges.

Pittsburgh Mayor David L. Lawrence has asked Pitt Chancellor Edward H. Litchfield to permit the National Football League Steelers to use the stadium for its home games.

The Steelers are interested in switching to Pitt Stadium from Forbes Field because of better football facilities and larger seating capacity.

Tunis Chief Keeps French Feud Hot

TUNIS, Feb. 18 (AP)—President Habib Bourguiba fired another shot in his feud with France today, demanding a U.N. investigation of the long rebellion against French rule in neighboring Algeria.

Bourguiba said he had instructed Tunisia's U.N. delegate, Mongi Slim, to file the demand with the U.N. Security Council.

It would be an enlargement of Tunisia's protest to the U.N. against the French aerial bombing of the border village of Sakiet Sidi Youssef Feb. 8. That complaint is scheduled for U.N. debate Tuesday.

Bourguiba's latest move came as the United States was reported working behind the scenes in an effort to keep the crisis over the bombing from reaching the United Nations.

Fear Debate
Western quarters fear a U.N. debate would give the Communists one more sounding board to undermine the West's position in North Africa.

Sadok Mokdem, Tunisian secretary of state for foreign affairs, said if a formal offer of U.S. good offices is made "it is possible that the Tunisian government would ask the adjournment of Tuesday's Security Council meeting."

Bourguiba said he decided to bring up the Algerian issue because France defied a U.N. investigation of operations by Algerian rebels from Tunisian sanctuaries.

The President said Slim called him from New York last night to say U.N. Secretary General Dag Hammarskjöld had urged that Tunisia moderate its reprisals against French troops for the bombing. Tunisia says 79 persons are killed.

Tunisian troops cut off food supply routes and barricaded French military forces, including those at the big French naval base at Bizerte. Police encircled French consulates.

West End Club Lists 1957 Report

BROOKHAVEN — The West End Rod and Gun Club has released a report of activities during 1957. It summarizes the accomplishments in the club's four major programs: fish, game, reforestation and game food.

During the year the club stocked 3,300 trout ranging from eight to 24 inches. In addition, 20,000 fingerlings were stocked in an experimental program. The cost of stocking fish and the fish program was $2,338 which includes 500 trout to be stocked next spring.

In 1957, the club also stocked 300 pheasants and 125 additional birds were used at the annual game dinner. Another program of stocking quail was accomplished, with all 65 birds still in the area. Cost of stocking and maintaining the program was $2,797.70. The rabbit stocking program cost nothing, due to the interest shown by some of the members.

Arthur Switzgabel, president, said the club's chestnut-tree planting program may be curtailed because only half of last year's order can be supplied by the nursery. However, Leon Keller, of Effort, is still looking for volunteers to help dig the trees which will be available for planting.

Dry weather put a crimp in the game food program, but all seed and supplies are still in stock and the project will be attempted this spring. Asher Switzgabel is chairman, assisted by Peter Edvardson and Albert Dotter as co-chairmen.

Membership dues for the coming year are the same as last year. The first monthly shotgun shoot for turkeys, pheasants and hams will be held Saturday at Chestnut Hill Inn. The March meeting will be held at the same place March 10 at 8:30 p.m.

It was brought out that the club had helped successfully to prosecute many poachers and night deer and rabbit hunters.

A Blizzard Of Problems Drifts Through Classified Pages Daily

Excavation Begins For Factory

CONSTRUCTION of a new furniture factory is underway in Hamburg to serve as an off-campus industry for a Berks County secondary school, a Reading church official announced here yesterday.

Elder T. E. Unruh, 720 Museum Road, Reading, president of the East Pennsylvania Conference of Seventh-Day Adventists, reports that excavation is now being done for a new 140-foot by 320-foot steel building which will be an integral part of the vocational and work program of the Blue Mountain Academy, Adventist educational high school two miles west of Hamburg.

The principal of the academy, which serves all of eastern Pennsylvania, is Elder Russell R. Adams, former pastor of Stroudsburg Church.

Construction is being rushed, he added, so that the $200,000 building can be occupied by June 1, 1958.

Location

The industrial building is located on six acres of land southwest of Hamburg between highway 122 and the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks.

According to Unruh, the factory will be operated by Harris Pine Mills, of Pendleton, Oregon, the world's largest manufacturer of unfinished pine furniture. The eastern branch of the mills, now located in Alexandria, Va., will be transferred to the new Hamburg location.

The factory, he added, will only be an assembly plant and distribution center for unfinished furniture. The milling will be done in Oregon and the unassembled parts will be shipped by freight to Hamburg where the furniture will be assembled. Distribution will be made from here to the northeastern sections of the country.

Harris Pine Mills is wholly operated by the Seventh-Day Adventist church, Mr. Unruh said. It was given to the denomination nine years ago by Charles Harris, owner, who was interested in using the proceeds of his mill for overseas and home missions. The main factory, and all of its plants, he added, are under the direct supervision of the General Conference of Adventists, Washington, D. C. Proceeds from the operation of the mills go into the denomination's mission budget.

"The new plant at Hamburg," Unruh continued, "will greatly enhance the vocational training program of Blue Mountain Academy. It will also provide work opportunities for students dependent upon labor to meet school expenses."

"The educational philosophy of the Adventist denomination calls for the development of the heart, the hand and the head," he asserted. "Students are required to meet all scholastic standards for college admission. In addition the curriculum calls for various types of vocational training and participation in work activities. In this way we hope to recapture for youth the proper respect for the dignity of labor."

Work Functions

"All normal work functions of the Blue Mountain Academy—laundry, maintenance, janitor, culinary, farm, and dairy—are done by students with adult supervision," Unruh said. "A great need has been felt, however, for an adjunct to the work program of the school—an off-campus industry where vocational training is stressed and work opportunity is provided for students. It was with this great need in mind that the officers of the East Pennsylvania Conference of Adventists and the Board of Directors of the Blue Mountain Academy negotiated for the establishment of the unfinished furniture factory in Hamburg."

The new building is an all-steel Butler unit which will cover approximately 45,000 square feet of floor space. A. R. O'Reilly, of Reading, is the local Butler Building representative.

Charles Frey, manager of the eastern branch of Harris Pine Mills, will continue to manage the plant in the new location in Berks County.

Other branches of Harris Pine Mills are located at Brookfield, a suburb of Chicago, Illinois; Clebourne, Texas; and Valdosta, Ga. Furniture from the factory is sold in major store chains in the United States and Canada.

Billy Graham Visits Home

DALLAS, Tex., Feb. 18 (AP)—Evangelist Billy Graham stopped in Dallas today enroute to a Latin-American speaking tour to his home in North Carolina.

Graham had been reported ailing, but he said he is not sick and never felt better in his life. He said the report of ill health probably arose from shortness of breath he suffered a few times while speaking in Mexico City's high altitudes.

Teamsters Face Huge Legal Bill

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., Feb. 18 (AP)—The Teamsters Union tonight was reported facing a half-million-dollar legal bill resulting from the compromise court suit which tried to block James H. Hoffa from becoming the union's president.

Godfrey P. Schmidt, attorney for the 13 rank-and-file New York Teamsters Union members who were plaintiffs in the case, has served notice he will seek $300,000 as fee and expenses.

"I'd say that's about right," Schmidt said when contacted in New York about the reported figure.

Schmidt's fee to be paid by the union, will need prior approval from U.S. Dist. Judge F. Dickinson Lettis in Washington.

It was indicated the plaintiffs' costs, plus the union's own defense costs, will run the bill to the union to close of half a million dollars. Under the court settlement, the union must pay all legal fees on both sides.

Three Monitors

Schmidt was chosen by the plaintiffs as one of three monitors to look over all Teamsters affairs under Hoffa's rule of the 1,400,000-member union.

The Teamsters, the nation's largest labor organization, were expelled by the AFL-CIO two months after a series of disclosures about financial dealings and alleged power abuses attributed to Hoffa, former union President Dave Beck and other Teamsters chiefs.

Schmidt and the other two monitors are due here tomorrow to confer with Hoffa and members of the Teamsters executive board, an occasion Hoffa has described as routine get-acquainted session. Schmidt indicated otherwise.

"I'm not flying down to Miami just to get acquainted," Schmidt said. He complained two plaintiffs' witnesses in the recent court case—in which Hoffa was accused of having helped rig the Teamsters convention last October to insure his election—had been subjected to retaliation.

Schmidt said this is specifically prohibited in the court-approved settlement. He said losses in Fall River, Mass., and Providence, R.I., have instituted proceedings to oust the two witnesses on the ground their testimony "tended to bring the union into disrepute."

The other monitors, beside Schmidt are, L.N.D. Wells Jr., of Dallas, Tex., named by the Teamsters, and former Washington, D.C., jurist Nathan Cayton, the chairman and neutral member.

Hoffa disclosed he is divesting himself of several private business interests in order to comply with the court settlement. It bars Teamsters officials from having business dealings which might conflict with their union functions.

Tunisia, France Agree

TUNIS, Feb. 18 (AP)—Tunisia and France agreed today to accept the good offices of the United States and Britain in the quarrel over the French aerial bombing of a Tunisian village.

Tunisia delayed calling off its protest to the U.N. Security Council, but diplomats in London said Britain and the United States were confident today's action had warded off an acrimonious public debate when the U.N. meets tomorrow.

Good Offices

In using their good offices, the United States and Britain will act as go-betweens in passing messages and proposals back and forth in an effort to help repair the relations between France and its former North African protectorate. They will not be acting as judges or mediators.

Informants in London said the British and Americans were appealing to both Tunisia and France to withdraw their complaints to the U.N. The Western powers fear such a debate would benefit only Soviet Russia, whose Arkady Sobolev is president of the council this month.

Dingmans Ferry People Win Fight Against Huge Snow Drifts

Three Ill Persons Taken From Homes

DINGMANS FERRY—Delaware Township residents battled heavy snow drifts, mechanical failures and exhaustion over the weekend to open the township's road.

At least three ill persons were dug out of their snow-bound homes during the 48 hours following the heaviest snowfall of the winter.

Early Sunday morning, Mrs. James Albright was stricken at her home back of Shepherd's Corners. As soon as it was light enough to travel safely, her husband struggled through the snow to reach a telephone and ask for assistance in clearing the road to his house.

State and Delaware Township snow removal units were able to clear the highways but could not get through the drifts on the mountain road leading to the Albright's house.

It was decided to use a bulldozer, but Mrs. Albright urgently needed medicine so Bud Ryder drove his jeep to the village of Dingmans Ferry, while young Paul Gardner hiked back up the mountain road on snowshoes to tell the Albrights that someone was going for aid.

Percy Dye and Frank Hotalen volunteered to drive through the storm to Milford to get the much-needed medicine from Dr. Harvey Klaer. On their return to Shepherd's Corners, Peter Sadler and Jim Rocco, also on snowshoes, delivered the medicine to the Albright's house. Later, Ronnie Shepherd rode his horse up the steep roadway to be sure that the Albrights were all right that night.

Saw Mill

In the meantime, Clifford Shepherd, Herman Hathaway and Romain Whittaker, mounted on three of Shepherd's horses, rode through the woods to the Whittaker's saw mill to bring out the entire way, the horses were up to their chests in snow and they did not complete the 16-mile round trip through the dark woods until midnight Monday. As soon as lights could be attached to the bulldozer, Whittaker cleared out the roadway leading in to the Albright's home, finishing at 1:30 a.m. On Monday morning, Mrs. Albright was admitted to the St. Francis Hospital in Port Jervis for observation.

After about two hours sleep, Whittaker was back on the job bulldozing the back road from MacGregor's Corners down to the Bushkill line. This is the mail and school bus route, and drifts along here were so high that the usual equipment had no effect on them.

The school bus also travels along the Chestnut Ridge Road and it was here that a township grader went over a bank and Caleb Lentz, owner of the only other bulldozer available in Dingmans Ferry, was busy all day Monday trying to clear that area. In all, four pieces of snow-removal equipment (two State and two township property) broke down in Delaware Township during the first 48 hours after the onslaught of the record-breaking storm. Many other men and boys in the town were busy all day Sunday and Monday digging cars out of drifts, putting on chains and opening pathways to the homes of elderly people living alone.

Two other women who were anxiously awaiting the arrival of a bulldozer to clear their snow-covered roadways were Mrs. William Kemp, wife of the overseer of the Bromley Estate, and Mrs. Fred Brombacher of Monte Rose on the Silver Lake Road. Both women have been under doctor's care for a long time for serious injuries received in automobile accidents some time ago, and both were scheduled to enter city hospitals on Tuesday.

Father Dies

John Hamor, basketball coach at Delaware Valley High School, had the unhappy task of driving to Philadelphia through the storm on Sunday, because of the sudden death of his father, as the result of a heart attack he suffered while shoveling snow.

Less serious results of the record-breaking snowfall were the cancellation of services in both local churches, and the stranding of the numerous business people in Dingmans, who have to journey to various parts of New Jersey and even to New York City for their work.

Probably the only people who actually enjoyed the storm were the 40 honeymooners who were unable to leave Honeymoon Haven when their vacations were over. The 20 couples were obliged to spend another full day at the local resort, until the Briscoe Mountain Road was opened. Of the equal number of young people who were to replace the stranded honeymooners, only one couple managed to reach the Haven. The other 38 were scattered in hotels, motels and boarding houses from Stroudsburg to Milford after various adventures on their way to this vacation area.

Plans Made By Eagles For Initiation

PLANS for an initiation of members on March 18 were discussed at a meeting of Stroudsburg Aerie, Fraternal Order of Eagles, last night.

Ernest Ridgeway, membership chairman, said the group will be known as the Joseph Mahoney class, honoring the state president.

No initiations will be held after March until the Mother's Day class in May, Ridgeway said. He reported 24 new members are needed for the March class to meet the aerie's quota.

Signers

President Frank Forrie thanked signers of "Jobs After 40" petitions and Charles Berger reported $9.50 forwarded to the Anna Logan fund for calendars.

Ridgeway and Lex Voss, secretary, reported on the Atlantic City conference. It was announced no district meetings were held last week because of inclement weather.

A moment of silent prayer was observed for Otto Schafer, a member of the aerie, who died yesterday. Two applications for membership and two new members were initiated.

PRR To Suffer Curtailments

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 (AP)—Pennsylvania Railroad service will suffer "heavy curtailments for several more days," the railroad announced late today.

The PRR announced cancellation of all through sleeping car service tonight to Baltimore, Washington, Cleveland, Erie and Buffalo.

Many electric engines usually operated in the New York-Philadelphia-Washington-Harrisburg area are out of service, the railroad said, because of short circuits caused by wind-driven snow penetrating the engines.

Diesel engines were being substituted today "over the most important passenger routes," a spokesman said, and the electric engines "probably cannot be placed back into operation for some time."

The Daily Record

Stock Market Nudges Ahead Slightly

NEW YORK, Feb. 18 (AP)—The stock market nudged ahead slightly today and set its second record in two days for the highest trading of 1958.

Heavy snow and freezing temperatures in the eastern United States were still reckoned as factors in keeping a portion of market-minded folk away from places where stocks are dealt in. At the same time, the economic climate showed little sign of a big thaw.

Volume dropped to 1,680,000 shares compared with 1,700,000 yesterday and once again was the smallest since Nov. 11 when 1,540,000 shares were traded.

Lorillard headed the most active list, off 7/8 at 40 1/2 on 51,000 shares. Second was Standard Oil New Jersey, off 1/4 at 49 1/2 on 38,900 shares. Third was Royal Dutch, up 1/4 at 39 1/2 on 30,000.

Next In Line

Next came North American Aviation, off 2 at 27 1/4, and Safeway Stores up 1 at 28 1/4.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks rose 10 cents to $159.50 with the industrials up 30 cents, the rails unchanged and utilities up 10 cents.

Again it was a narrow market, with only 1,097 issues traded. Of these, 450 rose and 406 fell. New highs for 1957-58 totaled 22 and new lows 11.

Polaroid was up 2 1/2. Merck slid 1 1/2. Philip Carey, and Building Materials firm rose 1 1/2. Chance Vought rose 1/4.

U.S. Steel advanced 1 1/2. General Motors 1/4. American Telephone 3/4. Gulf Oil 1 1/2. Anaconda 1/4 and Zenith 3/4. U.S. Borax dropped 1 1/2.

American Stock Exchange prices were irregular on volume of 300,000 shares compared with 490,000 yesterday. Gainers included Wallace & Tiernan, Fairchild Camera and U.S. Foli "B." Among losers were Diners' Club, Thiokol and Vana d i u m - Alloys Steel.

U.S. Government bonds declined in slow transactions over the counter. Corporate bonds were lower in light trading.

Trooper On Duty In Storm Loses Wife, Children

WHITESVILLE, N.Y., Feb. 18 (AP)—A New York State trooper, away from home on emergency storm duty, lost his wife, son and two stepchildren today when a chimney became plugged with ice and snow, filling the family's home with fumes.

The dead were Mrs. Neva H. Kear, 28, wife of trooper Douglas L. Kear; the couple's 5-year-old son, Jeffrey, and two children of Mrs. Kear by a previous marriage, Sherry Elster, 10, and Tommie Elster, 8. A coroner said they were asphyxiated accidentally.

Kear was notified of the tragedy while on patrol out of the Clarence Substation, near Buffalo. State police said he would have gone off duty last night if it had not been for the storm.
